EARTHQUAKE LEAVES THOUSANDS HOMELESS

Twelve Villages Destroyed, and Four Hundred People Killed.

THE LOSS TO PROPERTY IS TODAY ESTIMATED AT TEN MILLION

The People of Italy Terrified by the Awful Violence of the Shock.

Rome, Sept. 9.—As a result of the earthquake felt with such terrible force throughout parts of Italy yesterday, twelve villages were completely wiped out and the inhabitants of the ruined villages spent last night in the open air without shelter.

It is estimated that the damage caused by the earthquake is ten million dollars.

Newspapers give heartrending accounts of the calamity. The disturbances centered in Calabria damaging and destroying over twenty-five villages, leaving thousands absolutely destitute, killing upwards of 400 and wounding nearly 600.

Scenes of Indescribable Horror.

Rome, Sept. 9.—All Italy is suffering from a terrible depression because of the news from the south, where one of the worst earthquakes ever experienced occurred yesterday.

Although the earthquake was felt all over Calabria and a certain extent in Sicily the worst news comes from Pizzo and Montelcone and from eighteen villages which are said to have been completely destroyed.

The shock was felt at 2:55 yesterday morning. It lasted 18 seconds at Catanzaro and soon thereafter was felt at many other points.

Scenes of indescribable terror ensued.

Women aroused from their sleep rushed half clothed into the streets screaming with fear, carrying their babies and dragging along their other children and calling for help on the Madonna and the Saints.

Men escaped into the open with their families all calling on their favorite saints for protection. Cafes were taken by assaults by the strange garbed crowd, but as the daylight broke without a repetition of the earthquake, the crowd gradually melted away until by eight the streets had almost assumed their normal appearance except for ruined villages where the inhabitants had no homes to go to.

General confusion was added to by the dreadful cries from the jails where prisoners were beside themselves with fright and in some cases mutined, but fortunately all of the prisoners were kept within bounds.

Cairo's Lid Still On.

Cairo, Ill., Sept. 9.—Dr. J. A. Tagan, secretary of the state board of health, arrived yesterday from Springfield to take charge of the quarantine here for a few days. Dr. Eagan, after going over the situation here and at other points expressed himself as being very well pleased with the manner in which the work has been carried on during his absence.

A few of the citizens of Cairo, who are not in favor of such a strict quarantine, appealed to Dr. Eagan yesterday to lift the restrictions here and make the train inspections and the quarantining less stringent. Dr. Eagan stated that there was more of a necessity of restrictions now than at any other time and refused to do anything that would lift the quarantine in any particular.

"The people should not be guided by the reports from New Orleans alone," said Dr. Eagan. "While the authorities there have the situation well in hand, the fever is spreading rapidly in other parts of the south and there is more danger of infection now than at any other time this year."

THE WEEK'S NEWS IN THE COMMERCIAL WORLD

Bank clearings this week, $613,719. Same week last year, 757,528.

The committee and sub-committees of the Commercial club appointed to look after the Methodist college work is quietly doing its duty, but there are no developments of importance. The board of education of the church is expected to meet at Lexington the 29th of this month to decide the college location, but judging from letters written by members of the board, the question of a site is not to be decided at the meeting, and may not even come up. Paducah will not abate its efforts to land the college, however.

Mr. H. T. Ogden, cashier of the Hazel bank at Hazel, Calloway county, has sold his stock to Mr. H. I. Neely, agent for the N. C. & St. L. there, and it is understood goes to Louisville to locate and become one of the promoters of small banks to be established throughout the south. Mr. Neely will succeed him as cashier at Hazel.

The Commercial club committee appointed to secure subscriptions of stock for the wheel company that desires to locate here reports that it is meeting with success and encouragement. In a few days a meeting will be held to ascertain what the prospects are for having the entire $10,000 subscribed.

Business in the electrical line as far as wiring is concerned, has never been better in Paducah than it is at present. There is a small army of electrical workers employed in Paducah and everyone is busy. Since a city electrical inspector was appointed to have all bad wiring changed, which was about three months ago, it is estimated by electrical workers that at least $10,000 worth of new wiring has been done. Several new electrical wiring firms have sprung into existence and linemen from all over the country sent for in order that the work be completed within the specified time.

LAST BODY FOUND

ENGINEER WILLIAMSON'S REMAINS RECOVERED AT WRECK.

The Injured Are Reported Resting Easy—Track Has Now Been Cleared Up.

The track at Obion river where the disastrous wreck occurred two days ago has been cleared of all debris and all trains are running through on schedule time.

The wrecking crews are now working with the engines and trucks of cars hoisting them out of the ravine and also getting out what freight is possible to save.

The road will lose a great deal by the accident, as many thousand dollars in rolling stock is smashed up, to say nothing of the value of the freight lost.

The body of Engineer Williamson of Memphis, was recovered yesterday afternoon late and sent home for interment. This was the last body to be recovered.

Engineer Armstrong is reported resting easy and so far no evidence of internal injuries of any seriousness has developed. The other three injured men are resting well at the hospital.

LOST $50.

His Companion Was Searched But the Coin Was Not Found.

A man named Word, giving his residence at Grahamville, McCracken county, reported to the police this morning that he had lost $50 and suspected a companion had "touched" him. He was out drinking last night, he admitted, but does not remember how he was separated from his cash. A search of his companion was made but no money found. No arrests were made.

SUMMARY ACTION AGAINST PALMER

Public Printer is "Fired" by Telegram From President.

He Had Disobeyed the Recent Instructions Relative to the Foreman.

WHOSE RESIGNATION HE ASKED

Oyster Bay, Sept. 9.—President Roosevelt yesterday afternoon took summary action in the case of Frank W. Palmer, public printer and head of the government printing office at Washington, by removing him from office.

Last Monday the president requested Palmer to send to him his resignation to take effect the 15th inst. At the same time he directed him not to take any further action in the cases of H. J. Ricketts and C. L. Hay, a division foreman in the government printing office, whose resignation Palmer has requested.

Palmer had given Ricketts and Hay until Tuesday to show the cause in writing why charges he had made against them should not be operative in removing them from their positions in event of their failure to resign.

In direct disobedience of the president's directions, Palmer in the 5th inst., notified Ricketts and Hay that he might have in which to answer his charges would be extended until Saturday the 9th inst.

As this was not only a violation of the president's specific instructions, but as the case of Ricketts and Hay had been placed in the hands of the Keep commission for investigation, the president felt it was time to take positive action regarding Palmer. He therefore removed him from the office by telegraph and directed him to turn over the government printing office to Foreman Ricketts, whom he has designated as acting public printer.

It can be said the appointment of Ricketts as acting public printer is not an assurance that he will succeed permanently to that office. The president has not determined yet whom he may appoint as successor to Palmer. It is not unlikely that final determination of the question may depend to considerable extent upon the result of the investigation into the affairs of the government printing office by the Keep commission.

MR. HARAHAN

Says at Memphis That He Knows Nothing of Tennessee Central Deal.

Undeterred by the ubiquitous stegomyia, and busy as ever in the interests of the Illinois Central railroad, J. T. Harahan, second vice-president, and his son, W. J. Harahan, fourth, vice-president of that road, passed through Memphis yesterday morning in their private cars, says the Memphis Commercial-Appeal of today. They had just come from Obion, Tenn., where the head-on collision took place the day before.

Both officials decline to discuss the collision, saying that the matter had already been treated in the newspapers. The second vice-president denied all knowledge of the reported purchase of the Tennessee Central by the Illinois Central and the Southern.

Government officials and the better class of Japanese citizens are expressing keen regret over the attacks on the Christian churches. They explain that the affair was the result of local conditions and does not indicate any serious anti-foreign or anti-Christian feeling.

The members of the Harriman party have gone to Nikko, having cancelled the local program for their entertainment. The present quietness is ascribed largely to the heavy rain which scattered the crowds, and to the presence of military guards.

A MONTANA BELLE MARRIES IN HASTE

To Keep From Wedding Senator Clark's Mine Manager.

A Hot Springs, Ark., Doctor the Lucky Man—Had to Hide to Escape Girl's Fiance.

AND A LOUISVILLE ELOPEMENT

Butte, Mont., Sept. 9.—Dr. James T. Jelks, of Hot Springs, Ark., came to Butte and married Miss Belle McKaskle, daughter of W. C. McKaskle, a rich mine owner of Pony, Mont., and thereby nearly precipitated a tragedy.

Jelks met and became infatuated with Miss McKaskle at Hot Springs three years ago, and they became engaged, but on the young lady's return to Montana the engagement was broken off, her parents opposing it. Dr. Jelks, however, was a persistent wooer, and has made frequent trips to Montana. For several weeks Miss McKaskle has been visiting in Butte, where she is a great social favorite. It was understood that she was to marry Adolph Heilbrunner, manager for Senator Clark's enterprises, but a few days ago she sent a telegram to Dr. Jelks, asking him to come to her rescue, and he appeared on the scene this morning.

An hour later he was married to the girl, and then the rejected lover heard of it and there was danger in the air. Friends took the young man in charge and Dr. Jelks and his bride were kept in hiding until 5 o'clock, when they departed for Hot Springs over the Union Pacific. The girl's parents were desperate, but could not reach Butte, and the young people refused to answer telegrams or telephone messages.

Last June a young man at Virginia City, who had made preparations to marry Miss McKaskle and was disappointed, had to be sent to an asylum. She is said to be the handsomest woman in the state. She is 21 years of age.

Capt. Sebolt's Daughter Marries.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 9.—A romance extending over an acquaintance of three years, was culminated Thursday, when Elbert M. Allen and Miss Florence F. Sebolt, daughter of Captain Max Sebolt, were secretly married by Magistrate B. T. Nixon, of Jeffersontown. The parents of both objected. Mr. Allen went to Jeffersontown Wednesday to make all arrangements, as the elopement was evidently planned beforehand, and he went to Miss Sebolt's home apparently to take her to the Masonic theater. Instead of going to the theater they met two friends, and the four proceeded to the home of Magistrate Nixon, in Jeffersontown where they were married.

Theatrical Notes

A number of shows have cancelled this territory on account of changes in their routes of the quarantines in the south, but a number of good shows will soon be at The Kentucky. The "Rajah of Bhong" has been secured for the formal winter opening of the house. The next attraction on the books is "Polly Primrose" on September 19.

The Casino Stock company ends its season at the Casino in Wallace park tonight, but the moving pictures will continue the remainder of the month. The theater closes for the season October 1.

ACTION RESCINDED.
The Contract For Coal For the Schools Goes to the Bell Union Company.

The board of education held a called session last night and reconsidered the action by which the contract for furnishing coal for the public schools this winter was awarded to the West Kentucky, the St. Bernard and the Central Coal and Iron company, and awarded the contract to the Bell Union company, which is represented by Barth Brothers, grain dealers. The bid of the successful company was 8 8-10 cents a bushel for nut and 9 7-10 per bushel for lump coal, with no extra charge for weighing on the city scales.

A number of the trustees did not consider the lowest bid in this instance the best, but they were in the minority when the vote was taken and the Bell Union company landed the contract.

Daily Thought.

He is richest who is content with the least; for content is the wealth of nature.—Socrates.

COST OF A NEWSPAPER.

With a view to affording the general reader an idea of the immense cost of printing a modern newspaper, particularly in the large cities of America, says an editorial in Newspaperdom, the following authentic figures are submitted for inspection: Composition (weekly payroll)—Baltimore American, $2,000; Boston Globe, $4,100; Cincinnati Enquirer $4,200; St. Louis Globe-Democrat, $3,000; New York Herald, $4,000, and other papers in proportion. Another very heavy item of expense is the bills for special telegrams. On the Chicago Herald a few years ago they ran to $6,500 per month; Chicago Tribune, $5,000; Cincinnati Enquirer $5,500; New York World, $9,500; St. Louis Globe-Democrat, $12,000; San Francisco Examiner $8,000; Boston Herald, $6,000, and St. Louis Republic, $4,000.

Then there comes the most heart-breaking account of all, the white paper bill. On the New York World it runs to about $700,000 per year; and on the New York American about the same; on the Chicago News about $350,000; on the Boston Globe and Herald about $350,000 each; on many other papers it runs from $100,000 to a quarter of a million dollars every twelve months. On some of the weekly journals the paper bills are even higher, for the reason that a better grade of material is used.

The ink bills are also enormous, while the pay of the writing staff, particularly on the metropolitan papers, and the artists' department consumes tens of thousands of dollars per week. On special occasions, like the present war between Japan and Russia, for instance, the pay of correspondents and artists aggregates an immense sum, and their traveling and other expenses is much more. It is no wonder it takes nerve as well as cash to conduct a great newspaper in these days. The expenses of the smaller papers are in direct proportion to those of the larger.

big enough to see the broad world as it appears beyond the confines of their own narrow imaginations. When good, great men are wanted for public service, however, where can they be found quicker than among the master minds that have made the United States great through her commercial and financial institutions? If a lawyer is needed, which shall be taken, a man who has achieved little or no success, or one who has risen to national fame and fortune by his successful handling of big interests? If an engineer is wanted which is preferable, one who builds a foot bridge and lays off streets, or one who builds railroads and canals? If a financier is needed, whom should we choose, a provincial banker, or a man whose financial operations have won the admiration of the world? The answer is plain. When men who have built up reputations and fortunes in certain lines are willing to retire and enter public service, they are usually good material, and it is likely that no country in the world ever had such a number of distinguished, capable men at the head of its affairs as the United States now boasts of.

The Mayfield Messenger is one democratic paper that opposes the democratic scheme to do away with the Australian ballot system. It says: "We think the advocates of the amendment to the Constitution will become ashamed of their job. People have no idea of returning to conditions of half a century ago. They believe in every man voting his sentiments regardless of fear or favor. All of this idea of the old fashioned viva voce vote is far fetched, and doesn't mean anything to purify the elections in Kentucky."

Bankruptcy Notice.

In the District Court of the United States for the Western District of Kentucky, in Bankruptcy.

Witness the Honorable Walter Evans, Judge of the said court, and the seal thereof, at Paducah, in said district, on the 8th day of September, A. D. 1905.

Clerk Made Out the Checks.

The statement yesterday that there was a delay in delivering city checks to those allowed money by the legislative boards, because Treasurer Dorian had the checks to make out at the last minute, was a mistake. The checks were made out as usual by the city clerk, and not by Treasurer Dorian. The delay was occasioned by a legal question that was finally settled by the solicitor.

Another Engine Test.

It is stated that the test of the big 812 on the Paducah district having proven successful, the engine will be the latter part of the month be taken to the Louisville district where a little steeper grade with more hills will be encountered. It is thought the big engine will work with as much success on the east end as she did on the Paducah district.

WILLIS' FRIENDS ARE ELATED

The jury in the murder case of Laurence Willis, at Cadiz, Trigg county, this morning at 10:30 o'clock brought in a verdict of "not guilty" and young Willis, for the first time in over two years, was a free man.

Willis was charged with the murder of his uncle, Lieutenant W. B. Johnston, who was killed near Cadiz, Trigg county, March 1, 1903. The victim of the assassination was shot through a window as he was retiring and lived but a short time.

Laurence Willis, for various reasons was arrested for the crime, and convicted and given a life sentence, at the first trial, although he was apparently so confident of acquittal that he neglected countless opportunities to escape.

He was granted a new trial and brought to Paducah for safe keeping, the Cadiz jail being unsafe, and spent several months as a guest of Jailer Fayette Jones. The case was tried two or three times at Cadiz, the jury being unable to agree except at the first trial. Willis, some months ago executed bond and was released.

It was not believed that he would ever be convicted again, especially as two of the most important witnesses have died since the first trial.

Willis is a young man and made many friends while in Paducah, although during his stay here he was a prisoner in the county jail. Those who saw him nearly always called again and showed him many favors.

The case went to the jury yesterday afternoon and the jury stood from the first eleven for acquittal and one for conviction.

Willis comes of a prominent family but one which has been torn by factional differences for several years.

Hon. Charles K. Wheeler, of Paducah, was the principal attorney for the defense and Thursday made an able speech for his client.

Yucatan Chill Tonic
Perfectly Made
IMPROVED
Positive Cure
YUCATAN CHILL-TONIC

A medicine to produce results must be made right. Tastless Chill Tonics are not and we will prove it. No two bottles of tasting tonics have the same amount of medicine, so the dose is uncertain. At least 20 per cent. of the medicine remains in the bottle. A tasting tonic cannot usually be retained as it upsets the stomach. More lost action. They are not tasting, as the latter dissolve the quinine producing that awful bitter taste. Then every time a dose is taken a awful shake of the bottle. Loss. You will find that the more you take the sicker you get. The more you take the more you lose. Yucatan is the only tonic that drives the malarial germs out of the system. Wonderful results when used in cases of typhoid and malarial fevers. Physicians who wish to prescribe this tonic under an ethical name will receive valuable information and general directions.

KENTUCKIANS ARE FOUND EVERYWHERE

Former Paducahan Writes Intelligently of Sights and Scenes About Ports-mouth, N. H.

Hotel Wentworth, Portsmouth, New Hampshire, September 6. After all, it is a mighty small world we live in. Away up here on the Maine border, about as far as a man can get from God's country and still stay in the United States, one wouldn't expect to find many Kentuckians, or many southerners, but the woods are full of 'em.

Soon after we came up to Portsmouth for the peace conference, I noticed at the hotel a remarkably handsome woman, wearing beautiful frocks. Somebody said she was from Washington and had thirteen living children, some of whom looked almost as old as their mother. Subsequently I met her and she told me, with a good deal of pride—parable pride I think—that she was a Kentucky woman, a native of Oldham county I believe she said.

Next to her the most attractive proposition about the place was a little bit of a creature, who had a French husband. She used to go around wearing about half a million dollars worth of diamonds before breakfast, but she was a good-looker all right. I supposed, as did nearly everybody else around the Wentworth that she was a Parisian—might have been the original Miss Plaster of Paris for all we knew until we got acquainted, then it developed that she was born and reared in Louisville, but had lived abroad for a long time.

There were other incidents which have brought a realization of the small calibre of this planet home to me even more forcibly. A day or two ago while a lot of reporters were over at Kettley, which is in Maine, watching the navy yard to see when the envoys came out, a typical Down East Yankee, withered as a dried apple and with a game leg, hobbled up to look us over. I got to talking to him and found out he was a veteran of the civil war. When he learned I came from the south, and notably from Kentucky, he sat up and took notice.

"I never was in Kentucky but once," he said in a dialect I won't try to imitate. "I was serving guns on a gunboat, and I got crippled up by a falling spar while we were bombarding a Kentucky town on the Ohio river. I was laid up six months that time."

"What was the name of the town?" I asked.

"Paducah!"

Funny, wasn't it? But the experience, in a way, was to be duplicated the same afternoon. A pretty gunboat, looking like a bride in its coat of white, slipped down the river from the harbor and halted at a mooring almost opposite where the bunch of correspondents sat. Pretty soon a lot of jackies pulled ashore. One of them stopped and told us that the gunboat was the Dubuque.

"She's a dandy," he said, "fast as lightning. And there's another just like her that's just been finished—the Paducah."

Only today I met a Canadian editor who asked me if Paducah wasn't the town in which they made all the whiskey. Evidently the fame of Brook Hill has crossed the line into John Bull's territory. There was another man who remembered Paducah as the place where George Ade laid the scene of his first successful fable in Slang, the one about Zoraster and Zendavesta, the two knockabout comedians.

The hotel clerk, or rather the head hotel clerk is a Virginian and the gentlemanly barkeeper in the palm garden back of the Wentworth hails from Nashville. The guests include people from half a dozen southern cities, and among the correspondents are a Texan, an Arkansas traveler, a South Carolinian, a Georgian, this last being a son of Sam Small, the Atlanta evangelist, and your humble servant.

But there are a lot of things that are not a little bit southern at the hotel. The bell-boys are colored, but they speak with correct Boston accents. Some of them go to Harvard in the winter and carry ice water and clean towels through the corridors of summer hotels during vacation. It sounds funny to hear bell-boy, as black as a stick of licorice, using the broad A in conversation.

And here's another fact which struck me as unusual. You don't find any of the natives talking the kind of lingo that is spouted in the "Old Homestead" and "Way Down East" school of drama. The typical Gosh characters seem to exist only on the stage, as far as I have been able to tell after four weeks up here. As a matter of fact an educated New Englander's accent is very much like that of an educated Virginian or Kentuckian and five hundred per cent more southern in its tones and shadings than the nasal twang of an Indian or an Ohio man, living perhaps only 40 or 50 miles from the border between the North and Dixie.

But there is one thing which is emphatically Yankee, as we have been taught to look on Yankee institutions. I'm speaking now of the way this hotel soaks the prices to the correspondents. We pay triple for everything. Rates for table board are $4 a day straight and the Palmer House in Paducah has the fare beaten a block. The newspaper men embrace fifteen nationalities and they hail from every corner of creation, including Australia, Siberia, Brazil and South Africa, not to mention the large European and Asiatic countries; and all of them unite in saying that the Wentworth, when it comes to charging fancy rates, puts it all over the rest of the world.

The clientele this season, before the peace conference, included the usual run as one finds it at any sub-fashionable hotel on this coast—papas from Pittsburgh and Peoria in white pique waistcoats with rapid-fire checkbooks in their breast pockets; mamas going on fifty-five in girly-girly shirtwaists buttoned down the back and enterprising displays of real jewels; automobile fiends, goggled and helmeted like deep sea divers; Sadie girls, in white frocks and bangles on both wrists; Sadie boys, with nothing of importance under their hats except the parts in their hair, and all the rest of it, including an orchestra that went to work right after breakfast and a head-waiter owning his own dress suit.

Then came the conference. It too big a proposition for any summer hotel on earth the size of this one to swing on short notice. The envoys expected good-sized suites. They got a room apiece and a bathroom apiece, with open plumbing to make things look cheerful and homely. The Russian dining room was a converted bedroom—not a very large bedroom. When all the Russians were at meals together the waiters stood outside the door. The Russians, fearing complications, were said to abstain from foods that are calculated to swell one up. The corridor of the annex, where Witte and Rosen were housed, is neatly and durably furnished, but compact as to size. Most of the time a very large baby carriage belonging to a young heiress stood just at the foot of the steps. The other night when Witte came downstairs to greet the correspondents he and Rosen had to crowd in behind the spreading antlers of the baby carriage. Coming into the annex on this historic occasion most of the correspondents fell over the carriage's wheels. Swear words were emitted in five known languages.

The foreign mind has been at a loss to grasp the American system of closing up nights as practised here amongst us at Newcastle. Between 11 and 12 o'clock in the evening the elevator is hermetically sealed. Through the lobby and the halls electric lights are turned out to save wear and tear on insulations. The man who ticks in from the palm garden towards the impious hour of midnight finds the lobby a large vaulted cavern, polka-dotted at remote intervals with incandescent fire flies. Ebony bellhops are going around, requesting belated persons to kindly stand with their feet off the floor while the bellhops take up the company rugs and shift the property palms. There is one brightly illuminated spot. Above the desk is a perfect blaze of light, composed of three globes, and here you behold a lean and hungry Cassius of a night cashier, visibly taking on flesh as he toots up gratifying totals against your name.

Certain features of our domestic insect life have also impressed themselves upon the Muscovite and the Oriental. This island excels in mosquitos and challenges the world on houseflies. It was funny, a few nights ago, to watch the expression of the Nipponer face as its owner saw the dressed-up native moving about the drawing room, carrying in one hand a bunch of lighted punk-sticks and in the other a small vial of the official perfume—oil of sassafras—pausing anon to wave the former about and anoint features, ankles and wrist joints with the latter.

The New Hampshire coast mosquito is a scab. He has no union card. The organized skeeters of Jersey work eight hours, but daytime and night look alike to all journeymen of the craft up this way. There are pretty weedless woodlands fair orchard meadows and cut-plush lawns around the Wentworth, for this is a regular green-velvet country to look at, but the visitor dare not go afielde even in the high noon for a ramble. Once off the auto-beleved roadway and Brer Skeeter hails you. Some of the best blood of Russia and Japan is now coursing through the veins of the Wentworth's mosquito staff.

The flies hold the dining room concession. In the internal economy of this hotel fly-screens for the dining-room don't figure. Flies come in from the kitchen—devilmay-care fashion, boisterous flies that forgot to wipe their feet, and from the stables near by—horsey, husky flies, full of shop-talk. A short life and a merry one for these fellows. Some, dying, fall into the lemon ice, where they loom up like a split infinitive in a Harvard essay. Others have extensively autographed the French windows at the east end of the long room.

"Tis to the palm garden one must go for personal experience with a sliding scale of prices which slides but one way—upward. Drinks start out to be 15 cents a head or two for a quarter. That was before the envoys and the correspondents arrived.

A plain drink—that is, whisky straight—is now 20 cents. A highball is a mixed drink because it contains both whisky and seltzer, and the tax is 25 cents in each instance. Ordinary cocktails, sans cherry, sans lemon peel, are quoted weak at 25 also. The palm garden had a cocktail cherry until last Thursday when somebody insisted on having it brought in and took it away with him. Claret lemonades, mint juleps (Wentworth edition) and horse necks grade up 30 to 40 cents. The process of reason employed in differentiating between a plain drink and a mixed offers attractive psychological features. For example:

A palm gardener, feeling poorly, called for blackberry brandy—a plain drink. The bill came to 20 cents. After he paid it he decided to season the brandy up and ordered a dash of nutmeg. The waiter then collected 5 cents more, the addition of the nutmeg having made it a mixed drink.

The prevalent style in mint juleps causes a turning over of the Kentuckians in their graves every time the barkeep here compiles one. He gets 35 cents for a julep, but it's worth the money—food, drink and a shady place to sit under, all combined.

As he interprets it, the julep includes ice, a whole lemon—a lemon in a julep!—rye whisky, a dense undergrowth of mint and mint foliage on top, various flora and fauna not classified, pickled fruit and a thick, lathery-looking massard of something or other on top.

The Wentworth julep only needs a crust on it to be a pie. Like nearly all the other American correspondents I came here, pro-Japanese in my sympathies. I will go away, now that the conference is about ended, pro-Russian. That is we still think the Japanese were in the right of it in the late war, but on personal acquaintance, we like the Russians better. My table in the dining room is only a few feet away from where Baron Komura and some of his suite sit, three times a day. I have yet to see him smile or display any interest in anything except his vitals. He is about the size of a district telegraph messenger boy and wrinkled and shriveled to boot.

These Japanese don't strike you as being flesh and blood creatures. They suggest automatic devices, cogs in a great machine which does its work mechanically. On the other hand the Russians are jovial, polite, friendly men thoroughly human in every imaginable aspect and from every viewpoint Witte is awkward as a bear and dresses like a Baldwin county tobacco hand, but he fairly radiates power and strength. Looking at him you realize, as if by instinct, that here is one of the really great men of the earth. He is easily the most popular of the plenipotentiaries.

There is also an American who is pretty popular in these parts just now—Theodore Roosevelt. Democrats and republicans, foreigners and Americans unite in praising him for his work in bringing about peace. Those who have been here on the ground and who know how the negotiations have proceeded, agree in saying that had not the president interfered when he did, the conference would now be off and the war be on. Even a good democrat can say this without damaging his political convictions and I think I'm still a good democrat. Anyway I joined Tammany Hall this week and expect to vote at least once for McClellan for mayor in November.

By the way, Col. Ed Farley would enjoy conditions in Kittery. There are 500 voters there and 499 of them are orthodox republicans. The remaining five hundredth is a democrat, but he suffers from creeping paralysis and don't always get to the polls. There used to be two democrats in Kittery but a wave of sickness came along and wiped out half the party at one kick.

Before long if the Sun and the Sun's readers can stand a second dose I'm going to write you a Paducahan's impressions of life in New York City.

Yours, Marooned in Maine,

IRVIN S. COBB.

St. Louis boats have been able to stay in the river all summer, says the Nashville Banner. Last year the stage of water became so low that all the regular line of Tennessee river boats had to rest for several weeks and Cumberland river craft brought in to take their places. There is no expectation of such occurrence this year. There are on the river now two beautiful new floating palaces, the City of Saltillo, making the St. Louis run, the largest and most magnificent boat on the river, and the City of Charleston, making trips from Florence to Savannah and Florence to Guntersville. This is quite and acquisition, as there has not been a boat running that distance up the river for sometime.—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

The Warren, which will take the Dick Fowler's place in the Cairo trade when the water gets low, was constructed at Diamond Bluffs, Wis., and her home port is Vicksburg, Miss. She is 134 feet long, being about eight feet longer than the M. P. Wells.

It is announced that the owners of the Island Queen will place that steamer in the mouth of the Kentucky river for the winter. The boat may be sent there within a month. The mouth of that stream sheltered several steamers and towboats during the great ice siege early this year.

Abcess.

Abcesses, with few exceptions, are indicative of constipation or debility.

Rufe Neece Gets Off With Sentence of Three Years For Manslaughter.

NEWS OF THE OTHER COURTS.

Circuit court lasted only a short time today, there being but two defendants before the court.

Willie McClelland the 14-year-old negro boy who broke into the Rehkop residence at Fifth and Monroe streets, and the Baker residence two blocks further up the street, and stole rings and other articles from the servant's quarters, pleaded guilty and was given two years in the penitentiary. He will be sent to the return school, Judge Reed stated.

Leander Donald, colored, who stole a lot of wearing apparel from the residence of Rev. Armstrong, pleaded guilty and was given two years in the penitentiary.

Mr. Cruse, a part owner in the mine question, and who claims to be friendly to both sides, has been largely instrumental in making the compromise, which, however, will not be effected until the money is paid over by the Indiana people, and the cases are called in circuit court next month and dismissed.

Mr. Cruse denies the statements in other papers that Mr. Smith paid in cent to anyone. He says in a statement written out today:

"The only thing that Mr. Smith or his attorneys ever signed or agreed to, was an order which is to be filed in the court when the purchase of the mine is paid by Peyton and others to the owners of the mine. Mr. Smith being one of the owners of the stock, and receiving a part of the purchase price. The order is as follows:

"These foregoing consolidated actions are dismissed by plaintiffs, defendant agreeing to bring no suit on account of subject matter of this litigation, or anything arising therefrom." * * * and I desire to say most emphatically that not one cent of the purchase price of this property was, directly or indirectly, or in any way, paid by Mr. Smith, or any one for him, but on the contrary, every cent was paid and to be paid by the purchasers of the mine to the owners of the mine.

"The fact is further that the purchasers of the mine had experts working there for some months, and, discovering the mine to be of great value instead of worthless, they were very desirous to purchase, and did purchase same in good faith, paying their money therefor; and Mr. Smith did not agree to pay one cent by way of costs, or for anything else, in way or settlement of these suits."

Deeds.

J. D. McElya deeds to T. A. Wade, for $6,000, property in the county.

L. D. Potter deeds to Mann Clark for $130, property on North Seventh street, the property having been sold by order of court in the case of Weil & Son against Henry Kahn.

Ed. Thurman and others deed to H. R. Lindsey, for $1 and other considerations, property at 23rd and Trimble streets.

Ed. Thurman and others to Minerva Thurman, for $1 and other considerations, property at 23rd and Trimble streets.

Ed. Thurman and others to G. H. Russell, for $230, property near 23rd and Trimble streets.

Suit Compromised.

As forecast several weeks ago, the suits of Jos. L. Friedman, D. G. Murrell, L. M. Rieke, Sr., Charles Rieke, Flinis Lack, J. A. Bauer, W. F. Bradshaw, Mrs. Joe Post and others against E. W. Smith, the former Paducah tobacco man, but now of Los Angeles, Cal., for a total of about $26,000, has been compromised. The plaintiffs alleged that the mine they had been induced to invest in was worthless, and charged misrepresentation, and attached Mr. Smith's Paducah property. It is understood that the only thing

Smith agreed to in the compromise was that he would not sue any of the plaintiffs for attaching his property. It seems that after the suits were filed capitalists offered to buy the mines and pay what the Paducah people had paid for their share, which knocked out the latter's case against Mr. Smith, and it was claimed laid them liable for damages for tying up his property here. Since the suits were filed the mines, which are up about Golconda, Ill., have been bought by Messrs. W. F. Doherty, David Peyton, G. H. Holzberg and A. A. Schwartz, of Jeffersonville, Ind., and Frank Sweeny, of New Albany, Ind.

Mr. L. W. Cruse, a part owner in the mine question, and who claims to be friendly to both sides, has been largely instrumental in making the compromise, which, however, will not be effected until the money is paid over by the Indiana people, and the cases are called in circuit court next month and dismissed.

Mr. Cruse denies the statements in other papers that Mr. Smith paid in cent to anyone. He says in a statement written out today:

County Court.

The liquor license of E. A. Voight in "Jersey" was transferred in county court today to Dye & Stewart.

Lee Easley, aged 24, and Nannie Mabrey, aged 21 of the county, colored, were licensed to wed today.

Surrendered Lease to Trustee.

The matter of a lease held by W. N. Levan on property adjoining the Hessig distillery has been settled by Levan relinquishing claims on the property and receiving an indemnity of $70.

When the estate of the bankrupt in the case of H. T. Hessig was being settled up, Levan claimed to legally hold the property on a two-year lease but the evidence showed the lease to have been made after the act of bankruptcy.

An attempt was made to hold the property, which is the residence of Levan, one year on another plea, but the court decided against him. By agreement of the trustees the property was surrendered and the indemnity paid.

Young's Court.

Constable A. C. Shelton, of Mechanicsburg, on the Colliersville and Lovelaceville road arrested Ed. Rich, colored, on the charge of whipping his wife. The prisoner was brought to town and arraigned before Justice Jesse Young who fined him $15.

U. S. Commissioner's Court.

Mr. Herman Friedman, of the A. M. Laevinson works, was yesterday acquitted in Commissioner Gardner's court of the charge of selling Pale Ale, on the 8th of August at the fair grounds without a license. It seems that a negro sold the beverage and claimed he acted as the agent of the Laevinson company. The evidence was heard and the defendant, Mr. Friedman, acquitted as he had simply sold the beverage to the negro, and had nothing to do with its sale at the fair ground.

County Court.

The liquor license of E. A. Voight in "Jersey" was transferred in county court today to Dye & Stewart.

Lee Easley, aged 24, and Nannie Mabrey, aged 21 of the county, colored, were licensed to wed today.

Police Court.

John Hale, colored, known as "Brownie," was this morning discharged in police court on a charge of malicious shooting with intent to kill.

He shot Elihu Harris and Roscoe Washington, colored. The two, with Will Loving, followed Hale and Tom Stubblefield and assaulted them. Hale shot in self-defense, the evidence showed.

The Commonwealth asked for a warrant against Hale for carrying concealed weapons and the warrant will be issued today. Hale was recognized to appear Monday to answer to this charge.

Other cases were: W. D. Berger, white, drunk, $1 and costs; Roy Moore, colored, breach of the peace, $5 and costs; Lydia Dunning, white, drunk and disorderly, $20 and costs; Edward Bankey, white, malicious cutting, continued; Sam Hobbs, colored, $1 and costs for using insulting language and a malicious cutting charge dismissed; Tom Baker, accused of malicious cutting colored, held to answer; Rosa Williams, Annie Wallace colored, breach of the peace $5 and costs; Dora Mayes, white, disorderly and disorderly, $20 and costs; Riley Swift, white, breach of the peace, continued; Sam Gold, colored, stealing coal, held over.

Sold Lots in New York.

Attorney A. Y. Martin trustee in the bankrupt matter of Dreyfus & Brother, this morning closed a deal by wire disposing of four lots in Yonkers, N. Y., for $500. This is one of the starting of numerous small suits his big creditors at Zion are beginning to complain at his lack of payment of the interest on their claims. Dowie owes at least $200,000 on first mortgages, it is said.

Exiled From New York.

Young, who recently shot Mrs. Catherine Morgan, secured her freedom when the case came up in court by promising to become a voluntary exile from New York and to go west.

She will probably go to her former
